Earned Leave Guidelines

Table of Contents

Introduction 1
Eligibility 1
Maternity and Paternity leaves 2
Bereavement Leaves 2
Compensatory off 2
Unpaid Leaves 2
Carry forward & Encashment of leaves 2
Points to keep in mind 3
What is our responsibility? 3
Where can I see my leaves? 4
Point of Contact 4
Version Control 4

Introduction

We encourage Technogisers to maintain a good work-life balance. Leaves are provided so that we can take the deserved breaks for various reasons and sometimes, our favorite one, for no reason at all! To help us take breaks whenever required, here are some guidelines.

Eligibility

- Technogisers engaged as 'employees' are eligible to avail leaves.
- Every Technogiser who is employed with Technogise is entitled to 24 annual leaves in a calendar year (from January to December).
- This basket of 24 annual leaves combines our casual leaves as well as sick leaves.
- New Technogisers will be entitled to annual leaves on a pro-rata basis depending on the date they join.

Maternity and Paternity leaves

- Maternity Leaves are as per the government policy and are a compliance that we all follow.
- Additionally, we can avail of Paternity Leave which is 1 week with full pay at Technogise.

Kindly read the attached document in case there is a situation to avail of these special leaves.

Bereavement Leaves

Please refer to the Bereavement Leave Guidelines here.

Compensatory off

Please refer to the Compensatory Off Guidelines here.

Unpaid Leaves

Every leave taken beyond the realm of the above leaves will be unpaid.
Loss of pay calculation - The loss of pay (as a result of taking unpaid leave) will be calculated according to the number of working days in a month. It will have the following formula:

- LOP = (Monthly gross salary) x (No. of unpaid leaves taken) / ---

(No. of working days in the month)

- For e.g, if someone's salary monthly gross salary is Rs.60,000 and they have taken 4 days unpaid leave in March 2023 (which has 22 working days), then their LOP = (60000 / 22) x 4 = Rs. 10,909 /-

Carry forward & Encashment of leaves

We have the option to carry forward a portion of unused annual leave from one calendar year to the next. Here are the guidelines:

If there are more than 5 unused earned annual leaves we can choose to:

a. Carry forward upto maximum 5 days. It will be added to our new balance of leaves.
b. Encash a maximum upto 20 days
c. A combination of a. and b.

Some points to keep in mind:

- If there are 5 unused earned annual leaves or less, we can choose to:

a. Carry forward all to the next calendar year. It will get added to our new balance of leaves.
b. Encash all of them. The amount dues for this is credited in January.

The calculation for encashment will be as follows:

Encashment amount = ((Monthly gross salary) x (no. of leaves to be encashed)) / ((no. of working days in the encashment month))

Points to keep in mind

While we are encouraged to utilize all our leaves in the current calendar year to maintain a healthy work-life balance, these flexible options allow us to manage our annual leave balance according to our preferences.

- Half-day leave - A half-day leave will be counted if we have worked for at least 4 hours.
- Long leaves - It is advised to take not more than 15 annual leaves at a stretch (excluding weekends). Every leave availed subsequently, which elongates this stretch, will be considered unpaid. This is because such prolonged absences are detrimental to the team's productivity.

What is our responsibility?

- There are 3 places where we need to provide written notification of our leave.
    - Update the Leave Calendar
    - Update our Kimai with project @leave
    - Update #leave channel in Slack if it is a leave that is not planned.
- Advanced notice - When we are applying for planned leaves, we need to inform our team well in advance. Keep this formula in mind:
    - Advanced notice = (Planned leave duration) x 3

  This means that if we are taking a 1 day planned leave, we need to inform our team 3 days in advance. If we are taking a 1 week planned leave, we should inform our team 3 weeks in advance... and so on. We are requested to follow this guideline to avoid our leaves being unapproved.
- We can also use /timesheet help command on slack to get help on how to add leaves and timesheet entries for our leaves.
- We will follow the same for availing of any optional holiday as well.

Where can I see my leaves?

Leave balances, historic leave data and optional Holidays selected can be referred to in the Leaves sheet.

Point of Contact

People Team - peopleteam@technogise.com

Version Control

Version Name	Month	Changes done
V_1	September 2020	Creation of guidelines
V_2	March 2023	Separated the Holidays guidelines. Formatting
V_3	March 2024	Language Refining the process Formatting.